Playoff Picture Takes Shape

One postseason bid yet to be determined

With two weeks remaining in the regular season, all but two postseason fates have yet to be decided.

That's in the North Division, where the Alpena IceDiggers and Marquette Rangers are vying for the NAHL's final Robertson Cup Playoffs bid.

With a three-point lead and two games in hand over Marquette, the lceDiggers are sitting in an enviable position, but aren't making any April plans just yet.

"We're breaking it down to playing our game one shift at a time and staying focused on doing things right," said IceDiggers head coach Jack Fritsche, whose team helped its cause last weekend with a two-game sweep over the Motor City Machine.

Alpena is staring at a daunting schedule to close the season, with three games against the U.S. National Team, two with division-leading Mahoning Valley and one against second-place Traverse City.

"We have some big games ahead," Fritsche added. "We just need to stay motivated, stay healthy, give a 110 percent and let the chips fall where they may."

With the deck stacked against the Rangers, who finish with four home games - two against Motor City followed by a pair with Traverse City – Marquette's focus is solely on what it can control.

"We understand that in order to get in, we need to win out and get some help, but, with that said, we haven't stopped playing," said Rangers head coach Kenny Miller.

"The guys have been competing in practice and every person in that dressing room thinks we still have a shot at getting in, even though we're not where we want to be in the standings. Our guys haven't quit; they're very optimistic."

Also still up for grabs is the NAHL's regular-season championship, in which South Division powerhouses Topeka and St. Louis have been battling back and forth all season.

With 85 points, the RoadRunners hold a one-point edge over the two-time defending Robertson Cup champion Bandits with four games to play, including two the final weekend of the season in St. Louis.

"The regular-season championship is something we've been working towards since training camp, and we're on track," said RoadRunners head coach Scott Langer. "St. Louis has been right on our heels, which has forced us to stay sharp."

A league championship brings with it home ice throughout the playoffs. With Topeka playing in front of an average crowd of 1,690 a night at the Kansas Expocentre, that incentive isn't lost on the RoadRunners.

"Obviously, the home ice is important for any team, and with the support we get at home, it maybe even more so here," Langer added.

The Bandits, who won last year's regular-season championship, host Mahoning Valley for two games this weekend before welcoming Topeka to town to close out the regular season.
